DOUBLE MURDER

Hawaiian Youth Relates Story of Slaying of Japanese and How When Deserted By Accomplice He Sought to Kill Partner in Crime, Only to Slay Another By Accident

THE double murder of yesterday morning is the culmination of the criminal work of a gang of four robbers, it was learned from Kapellea Kaeha, the 20-year-old Hawaiian boy responsible for the shooting, who made full confession to Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie at 10 o'clock last night. The gang, according to the confession, consisted of Kaeha, who now faces two charges of murder in the first degree; David Kapaona, who will be turned over to the juvenile court for several robberies; Gabriel Dixon, who planned the robbery of the Japanese home with Kaeha and Isidoro Elsinore, who was the second man killed yesterday morning.

Gabriel Dixon, although at the police station yesterday morning, was released by the police learned of the robbery. This being hunted by the police, the robbery was brought to the attention of the police. The home of Hoshino waited outside while Kaeha said, Kaeha had been sounded, to the room where the robbery had taken place. Kaeha drew his gun once more to kill Dixon with his last bullet, he later confessed.

The gun went off unexpectedly, however, and Elsinore was killed instead. Kaeha this morning admitted that the gang had been responsible for a long series of burglaries during the last few months. Kaeha began his criminal career at the age of 13 when he was placed in the reform school for breaking a Japanese bicycle, he said. Two years ago he was released from the reform school, but for a year was on parole.

Revolver Was Stolen
The revolver used in the murder was stolen from a Japanese on King street, the boy said this morning. Not long afterward, he stole $5 from another Japanese which he divided with Kapaona and Elsinore. Later he took $5 from a residence in Corkscrew lane and divided it with Elsinore. From

BOY CONFESSES
HE KNIFED MEN

Responsibility for the stabbing of two Japanese, following attempts at robbery on August 10 and 19, was placed upon Isidoro Elsinore, the Filipino who was murdered yesterday morning, and Kapellea Kaeha, the Hawaiian boy who shot him, by confession of the latter to Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie this afternoon.

N. Kammuri, a Japanese, was stabbed at his home on Davis lane off of Vineyard street, on the night of August 10, when he pursued the Hawaiian boy who had entered his home with the intention of robbing it. On that occasion the Filipino waited outside.

Morioka, another Japanese man, was stabbed and now lies seriously wounded in the Japanese hospital, following another attempted robbery at his home on Desha lane off King street. The stabbing on this occasion was done by Elsinore while the boy stood outside.

TEACHERS,
LABORERS, ARGUMENT

Legal Battle for Release of Pedagogues Brought From Japan Opens

FEDERAL Judge H. W. Vaughan's courtroom looked like a battleground this morning when, with the tables of the opposing counsel loaded with law books and congressional records, District Attorney S. C. Huber argued against the release of the five Japanese school teachers who are held in the immigration station awaiting deportation to Japan. Attorney Wade Warren Thayer is representing the teachers.

Attorney Huber, reading from the recent decisions of the supreme court of the United States and from congressional records, held that the Japanese teachers in question were liable under the alien contract labor law, because they came to Hawaii on invitation. Letters and opinions of the secretary of labor and commissioner of immigration in Washington, which were read, helped to strengthen his argument.

Attorney Thayer argued yesterday that the teachers are not classed as "laborers," and therefore are entitled to land in the United States. He quoted laws to substantiate his argument.

Those who are awaiting the decision of Judge Vaughan at the immigration station are Hatsumi Tsutsumi, Tatsukichi Kuwahara, Akiyo Kuwahara, Kazuaki Yamamoto, and Futoshi Ohama.

STEPS TAKEN TO DISCOURAGE FOOD IMPORTS

WITH a view to decreasing mainland importations by prevailing upon Honolulu retailers to deal extensively in foodstuffs grown at home, the territorial food commission and its agents will meet local merchants and outside island business men and growers some day during, or immediately following, the Civic convention.

Aside from discussing importations and the use of home-grown foods, the question of getting produce to the consumer without the aid of a middleman will be threshed out. Another problem to be considered is not only increasing food production on all the islands, but getting this produce to consumers in Honolulu through the territorial marketing division.

"We intend to invite all Honolulu merchants to this conference so that they may know what foods are being produced on the other islands, and when they will be ready for market," says J. F. Child, assistant executive officer of the commission. "The principal idea of this meeting is to lower importations to as great an extent as possible by encouraging the sale and use of home-grown foods. As a matter of fact, this has been the policy of the commission at all times.

Aside from the merchants and members of the commission, others who are to attend the meeting are W. D. Baldwin, unofficial commissioner on Maui; F. G. Krauss, agent on Maui; John Walsh, manager of the Kahului, Maui, store, and Harold Rice, extensive grower of corn, potatoes and other products on the Valley Island.

Some pertinent suggestions as to the necessity of getting local merchants interested in other island produce, and the part the territorial marketing division should play in the project, are contained in a letter sent to the commission by Mr. Baldwin. In part, the letter reads as follows:

"John Walsh is writing to you as to the advisability of getting the merchants together at a meeting in Honolulu in order to discuss the matter of better marketing of island produce."

"Mr. Krauss, Mr. Walsh, Mr. Baldwin and I had a meeting on Saturday and talked over the marketing problem, and decided that, if it meets with the approval of the food board, we should meet with the merchants of Honolulu and get an exchange of views as to what, if anything, should be done, this meeting to take place during or directly after the Civic convention meetings.

"As things are going now, it certainly is not satisfactory to us. There is no proper coordination between the Honolulu end and the Maui end of the game. It seems to us that there should be stationed in Honolulu someone, perhaps the marketing division, who should act as the middleman between the Honolulu merchants and the county agents, and he would do this work for a very low commission or none at all.

"This Honolulu agent would be the buyer for the merchants and the seller for the county agents. The produce would be sent directly to the merchants and therefore there would be no storage."

The theory has been advanced by a prominent resident of Honolulu that small farmers and homesteaders undoubtedly will not go into food crop raising to any great extent unless they are backed up by some organization that can guarantee them a market and a fair return for their produce.

HAVE PLAN FOR EXTENSION OF BISHOP STREET

Engineer Collins and Attorney Cristy to Hand It to Board at Early Date

City and County Engineer George M. Collins and Albert M. Cristy, deputy city and county attorney, are working on a plan which will be submitted in a report to the board of supervisors within a short time whereby the long-discussed Bishop street extension from Hotel to Allen street will be executed. The new plan calls for a dirt road without improvements, the cost of building being returnable by assessments levied on the property owners along the street.

According to Mr. Collins, there should be no difficulty under the new plan for effecting the extension, as the property through which the street will run from Halekua to Allen street is government land, while the property owners to the north of this point are ready to stand an assessment for the cost of opening up the street from Queen southward.

The details of the new plan for extending the street are now being worked out by Mr. Collins and while it is too late to submit it to the meeting of the board of supervisors tonight, the matter will be brought to their attention at the next meeting for approval. It is not expected the property owners on that street will oppose it.

The old plan, which called for an improved street with pavement, was opposed by the property owners on the grounds that as a great many of them intended erecting office buildings the work of hauling material would injure the improved road. Further, the owners hesitated favoring the improved street scheme because they were uncertain as to what might develop in the way of assessment levy, which might prove too high for their property in the present unimproved condition.

The opening of the street as a dirt road would leave the matter in a position where they can decide later on whether or not the business section would move in that direction and whether it was worth while erecting office buildings along that street.

The assessment which is to be made on each property owner will be worked out in ratio to the proximity of his property to the point where the street extension is made and will embrace all property owners on Bishop street, from Queen to Allen street.

Use Of War Bread Here
Will Save Tons Of Wheat

Six Thousand Pounds a Day Can Be Saved Nation if Honoluluans Will Use Graham Bread Instead of White—Wheat Prices Effect No Change in Cost

THE action of the government in setting the basic price of wheat at $2.20 a bushel will have no effect on the price of bread, but that Honolulu people can nevertheless save literally tons of wheat by using war bread made of Graham flour, is the belief of the leading bakers of this city.

While there is no immediate prospect of a rise in the price of bread, at the same time it is the belief of the leading bakers that the 5-cent loaf will not return until after the war, providing nothing unforeseen happens. Bread is now selling for 10 cents a loaf, the price being the same for both the wheat and Graham flour bread.

The people of Honolulu, however, can save the country at least 6000 pounds of wheat a day if everyone would use war bread made of Graham flour, according to figures compiled by G. Stanley McKenzie, manager of Love's Bakery. Approximately 20,000 pounds of bread are consumed by the residents of Honolulu each day, and if this consumption were entirely of Graham bread instead of white bread, the computed saving to the government would be made, he declares.

"In the Graham flour," explains Mr. McKenzie, "the entire kernel of the wheat is used. The 30 per cent of the wheat which is ordinarily allowed to pass out for stock food, for shorts and bran, is included in the flour."

"The war bread made of this flour does not contain any animal fats either. Cotton seed oil is used in place of the lard, on which the government has asked the people to exercise the most rigid economy. Molasses, which was formerly used chiefly to color the bread, is not included in this bread."

NEW HIGH SCHOOL IS
Y. M. PLAN

McKinley High Unable to Accommodate All Students; Full Course to Be Given at "Y" if Sufficient Number Enroll

HONOLULU will have a new high school. Rolla K. Thomas, educational secretary of the Y. M. C. A., announced today that the association would open a high school next Monday, providing that a certain number of students would enroll. A full high school course will be given.

Owing to the fact that a number of students have been unable to secure admittance to McKinley high school, the educational department of the association decided that in order to take care of these the Y. M. C. A. would arrange for a special course for freshmen.

Mr. Thomas said today that the Y. M. C. A. high school would carry the same subjects as McKinley, and the same hours would be given for study. A number of students have already applied for admission. Mr. Thomas said that if 15 students enroll for the freshman class that the school will be opened on Monday.

Superintendent of Schools Henry W. Kinney is in favor of the plan, and will consider the association school as a private one. It is not known as yet whether the school will have a football team, but it is hardly expected that they will seek admission into the interscholastic league this year.

Commander of Southwest Army Also Joins New Movement; Kerensky Orders Division of Infantry to Intercept Advance of Korniloff's Forces; Baltic Fleet Remains Loyal to Provisional Regime

(Associated Press by U. S. Naval Communication Service)
LONDON, Eng., Sept. 11.—The Swedish Aftonbladet, says a correspondent of the Copenhagen Exchange Telegraph, publishes a rumor that President Kerensky, of the Russian provisional government, has been killed by a member of the Bolshevik party. No confirmation of the report has been received here.

PETROGRAD, Russia, Sept. 11.—Gen. Korniloff's threatened revolt began to materialize today, throwing Petrograd into a state of frenzy when Premier Kerensky ordered a division of infantry to march from the city to oppose the revolutionists who under Korniloff's orders had detained at Dno to march onto the capital and besiege it.

General Korniloff is not alone in his opposition to the provisional government. He has been joined by General Denikin, commander of the southwest department, who has notified Korniloff that he will support him.

It is reported that a division from Korniloff's army has occupied Writza. The Baltic fleet, however, has promised its support to Kerensky.

The railroad tracks at Semrino have been destroyed by the Kerensky forces in order to impede the advance of the Korniloffites.

The leaders of the council of deputies have informed Kerensky that his trump card will be the support of the railroad employees who are entirely on his side. One fear is that of a general strike resulting in a tie-up of supplies movement.

Entente ambassadors, along with neutral representatives, were in close conference here today. Afterwards the Entente ambassadors met in separate conference and discussed the situation.

The provisional government discussed as an alternative the formation of a permanent national assembly along the lines of the Moscow conference.

It is understood Alexander Guchkoff, the Octobrist leader, has thrown in his lot with Gen. Korniloff.

General Savanoff, the new military governor of Petrograd, has issued a proclamation declaring that persons caught acting against the revolutionary party will be treated as traitors.

General Korniloff, in his proclamation, accused the government of acting in the interests of Germany.
